

ENHANCED ONE-STOP MOBILISATION & EQUIPPING PROCESSES

The Mobilisation and Equipping Centre (MEC) in Selarang Camp houses everything that an NS unit needs to be ready for operations within hours of being recalled.

1SG (NS) Lai Zho Beng, 28, receives a message telling him that he has been mobilised and is to report back to his unit. He is part of an infantry unit.

He arrives at the MEC, where he scans his identity card at the Self-service kiosk and receives a slip that lists the equipment and weapon he is required to draw.

He draws his organic weapon and proceeds to the training station where he refreshes his drills in handling the weapon.

Ammunition is delivered by the SAF Ammunition Command and subsequently distributed to the NSmen. At the MEC, vehicles are kept at the storage facility within a Controlled Humidity Environment, which ensures the vehicles can move out at any time.

1SG (NS) Lai then attends the mission-planning brief for commanders while his men undergo refresher training such as basic first aid and chemical defence drills.

After completing all stations, 1SG (NS) Lai is out-processed. In all, he has spent just under five hours in the MEC, as compared to the 10-12 hours in the past.

ENHANCED ONE-STOP MEC

Completed in 2017, the MEC is a multi-storey complex that centralises the equipping process for NSmen.

DIGITALISATION

- Self-service kiosk
- Customised equipping based on NSman's appointment

CONTROLLED HUMIDITY ENVIRONMENT

- Vehicles and equipment are maintained at optimal serviceability

GREEN TECH

- Use of renewable energy
- Light intensity controls and motion light sensors
- Water filtration system to recycle used water
